

How to decorate your novel

- Paige Edwards

How to "decorate" your novel using texture, color, and the senses to make your descriptions pop. Designers create functional environments filled with sensory details. As writers, we provide an escape for our readers to experience much of the same. This class will help you explore ways to ground your scenes, utilize sensory details, and bring your characters to life through descriptive writing.